Morehead State University was founded to bring education to the people of Eastern Kentucky and beyond. History continues as MSU looks to the 21st century from a beginning traced back to the Morehead Normal School which opened its doors in 1887. The private school closed in the spring of

1922, when the Kentucky General

Assembly established Morehead State Normal School. The state institution accepted its first students in the fall of 1923 and graduated its first class four years later. The crowning achievement occurred in 1966 when the Kentucky General Assembly granted Morehead State College university status. Since its inception, the University has grown from a teachers college to a regional university that serves Kentucky and Appalachia.

Morehead State University has changed significantly during the past century as the scope of its mission has broadened. The MSU main campus has grown and now spreads across 500 acres with approximately 8,900 students enrolled in the Colleges of Business, Education and Behavioral Sciences, Humanities, and Science and Technology.

The University has physically changed and considerably broadened the degree offerings available to students since the doors opened 106 years ago, but it has not changed in its continuing commitment to provide a quality, comprehensive, affordable education in a warm, supportive environment.

WHAT'S NEXT?

As the last year of high school begins, it's time to start thinking about where you want to be in five years and what it will take to get there. If your interests include a college education, then Morehead State University may be the place for you.

Set in the beautiful foothills of Daniel Boone National Forest, the 500-acre campus provides the perfect setting for your college experience. With easy access to classroom, dining, athletic and recreation areas, MSU is a place for all seasons.

One of the advantages of going to college is the variety of opportunities you'll have to explore and the many avenues open to you—some you may be familiar with and some you may not. A college education can provide you with more than just a skill, it lets you develop the personal and interpersonal talents and abilities which are of increasing importance in the job markets you will encounter. Morehead State offers a friendly, community atmosphere where professors are easily accessible and classes are small. Please accept this invitation to explore the opportunities that are available as you start thinking about the future.

The University has 65 undergraduate degree programs, including 10 associate-level degrees, 10 pre-professional programs, and 15 graduate degree programs. Each program and all the courses involved are offered through one of four academic colleges: the College of Business; the College of Education and Behavioral Sciences; the Caudill College of Humanities; and the College of Science and Technology. Following is a list of degree programs designed by each academic college to help you consider the opportunities MSU has for you. Remember, it is not necessary to think in terms of one program or another. It may be to your advantage to prepare for several career possibilities or options by combining programs or courses suited to your needs.

If you are a motivated, high achiever who wants the opportunity to enhance your experience, receive recognition for your efforts and be noticed by perspective employers or graduate admissions committees, the MSU Honors program is tailored for you. The program offers special activities with emphasis on culture and science experiences. Honor students may also take advantage of the Honors House for work or relaxation. Scholarships are awarded yearly to high school seniors who enter the program in their freshman year. For more information, contact the Honors Program, MSU, Morehead, KY 40351-1689, (606) 783-2982.

In considering where you want to be in five years, you'll want to remember that a career choice is your personal objective. You'll want to consider your personal strengths and weaknesses, your likes and dislikes, and how you can combine both your interests and your strengths for the greatest benefit to you. With the diversity of courses and program designs available, you'll be able to fine tune your selections throughout your four years on campus.

So what's it like to be a new student at MSU? Beginning your first year is a time of excitement and adventure filled with new challenges and adjustments. It's a time to meet new people and form friendships that will last a lifetime. It's time for the time of your life. So sit back, relax and get ready for the first year of your college experience.

The fall semester of your first year is a time of exploration and of getting to know all about your new home. You'll meet a lot of new friends in a very short time: people with the same interests as you, people from lots of other places, people just like the ones you know from home, and people who are very different from you. As the world is changing and populations are becoming more diverse, you'll have the opportunity to get to know people from not only different cultures but different countries. While this type of experience is interesting, it can also help prepare you for your future career. Morehead State has earned the reputation of having friendly, outgoing faculty, staff and most of all, students. It's a place where there is a sense of community, a place where you can feel comfortable, not only on your first day of class but throughout the year.

So what's the first semester really like? What can you expect to happen? Who can you expect to meet? During your first day on campus you'll move into your new home for the next year, and start exploring the campus. Most of you registered for giate adventure. Be sure to join in the fun and excitement. You'll meet lots of other new students as well as some who have been around a while. No matter what you like, there's something for everyone. There's a street dance on the boulevard, a campus-wide scavenger hunt that will help you get oriented, national entertainers provide concerts and shows, and the whole week is topped off with an ice cream fest and street dance at the President's house. Talk about an introduction! By the time your classes at the Summer Orientation, Advising and Registration (SOAR) session you attended, so you don't have to hassle with class schedules. There are lots of people to help you get started and friendly residence hall staff to show you around, help you find your room and answer your questions. Your roommates will be moving in too, so it's a good time to get to know them and swap summer stories.

During the first week there are a variety of activities to help you meet other students who are also new and uncertain about this college you go to your first class you'll feel right at home. In the next few weeks you'll learn your way around campus. After finding your classes and the shortest way to get to them, you'll experience book-buying chaos, and meet more friends than you ever thought possible. To help make your move to MSU as happy as possible you'll be enrolled in a course called MSU 101. This class is designed just for you—the new student. You'll have the opportunity to ask questions about classes, learn to budget your money, be introduced to basketball games, theatre productions, and a whole range of activities to make you feel at home. Around this time you'll also be able to sign up to play intramural sports on one of the residence hall teams, join a sorority or fraternity, get involved with club sports that interest you, and see what organizations there are for your major or just enjoyment.

During September you can enjoy going to either Eagle or Cave Run Lake with friends, cycling in the Daniel Boone National Forest, cheering on the Eagles at home football games, and not only showing your parents around campus during Family Weekend, but participating in all of the special event activities. You'll have called or written home a couple of times, established new friendships, and become accustomed to the small classes and friendly professors.

This is a great time to explore more of the campus. While some opportunities for involvement are high-profile activities and will become familiar to you very quickly, others will require you to seek them out. You may want to get involved in everything you can, or take it slower and investigate all the available activities before jumping into them. You'll start to get acquainted with the library's resources, get a grasp on what your instructors expect of you, learn your way around food service, and get to know the staff and other students in your residence hall. September is a time to get acquainted with MSU.

You'll also find that it's very easy to get involved in campus clubs, organizations and special events. Along with a host of other activities, these opportunities provide you with a chance to meet new people, have some fun, develop valuable career and leadership skills, and put your mark on the campus.

If you're an aspiring journalist you may want to work on one of the student produced publications. The Trail Blazer, the student newspaper, keeps a weekly record of University life and serves as the main source of information on campus. It gives undergraduates a chance to hone their skills as writers, editors, and photographers as part of the production or advertising staff. Other student publications that are always looking for new faces and ideas include the Raconteur, the student yearbook, and Inscape, a literary-arts publication. MSU students also operate the campus television station and may assist with the University FM radio station, WMKY. Whether you choose to work with one or several of these activities you'll be gaining experience and compiling a portfolio for job prospects in the future.

This month also kicks off the home football season. For at least six Saturdays during the fall semester you'll be able to show your support at home and cheer the Eagles to victory against their opponents in the Ohio Valley Conference. You'll need to don your blue and gold, grab a few friends and head out to Jayne Stadium where all the excitement takes place. Some games feature special half-time shows such as visiting high school bands or entertainers.

By September's end, you'll be waking up to cooler mornings as summer finally fades into autumn. You'll notice the leaves start to change, giving the campus a totally new look. You start to feel that fall is in the air.

Seasons have a way of setting a pace for things, and as they change, so do you.

You'll see yourself becoming more self-reliant, more outgoing and involved, and mostly, at home at MSU.

A major event in fall is Homecoming, which brings a host of activities for all ages—a time when old friends, former students, teachers and staff visit campus and get reacquainted. Activities begin on Friday and run through Sunday with an array of special events. One big highlight is always the football game where you'll enjoy watching the team in action, performances by the nation's #1 cheerleaders, an outstanding marching band, and a nationally recognized percussion ensemble. You'll witness the crowning of the homecoming queen and her court and see Eagle mania at its best.

October begins the fall theatre line-up and cultural activities on campus. Plays by the theatre department and other University groups, art exhibitions in the Claypool-Young Art Gallery and concerts by faculty and students of the music department are just some of the things you can enjoy at no extra cost. If you prefer sports, the women's volleyball team is in full-swing with a couple of exciting games each week, and more intramural activities have been added to the schedule. You'll discover that studying for classes is taking more time and that you need to prepare for all of your classes—not just a few.

One morning in mid-October you'll wake-up and suddenly realize the semester is half over. You'll also realize you have mid-terms to take and be glad you spent a few extra hours studying even though you'll still have to do some cramming. You'll also be glad you did those library exercises and know what resources it has to get you through your first set of exams.

The Camden-Carroll Library sits in the center of the main campus and provides you with timely, up-to-date information such as periodicals, newspapers, and books, and the latest technology to find the information you need. An on-line computerized catalog allows you to search for books and videos by keywords, by material type, or by a combination of subject terms, along with author, title, and subject. The system also has computerized entries for periodicals and is not only accessible at the library, but also from several residence halls and classroom buildings. You can have your own Internet account to access information and communicate with others nationally and globally. Technology is the highway of the future; it can help you become more efficient and effective in your classwork. And, while these skills will help you during college days, the knowledge of how to find information will continue to be helpful long after.

In addition to information services, you'll find lots of space for group or individual study. You will be able to use the micro-computer lab, borrow computer software, videos, cassette tapes, and record albums, as well as books and other reading materials. Typewriters, access to campus computing network, photocopiers, and graphic arts services are available for your use.

As you recover from cramming for mid-terms and not noticing anything else on campus, you'll see leaves beginning to fall; cool mornings are stretching longer into the day. Around this time you'll notice fog settling between the hills as you head out for class. You'll make a trip home for some warmer clothes to get you through the next month or so and you'll start doing more indoor activities. By month's end, a few more football games will have been won and lost and you'll realize you're about to experience Halloween MSU style.

The Undertakers Ball, sponsored by Student Government, is a major attraction for most MSU students. There are two things you'll need to prepare—first, a costume and second, an attitude for fun. You can plan to laugh, joke and dance until the wee-hours, long after the goblins have gone to bed.

You'll find that you've changed more after two months of college than you thought possible. One evening you'll find yourself thinking about how quickly you've become settled in your new home and how much your new friends mean to you. You may see a different image in the mirror than the one reflected during the summer. Just as seasons have slipped one into the next, you are gradually changing into the person you'll ultimately become.

As you start the last few weeks of your first semester at college, November seems to slip quietly into December, almost unnoticed. You'll find yourself involved in holiday parties, games and activities before the break. And, don't forget—the basketball team needs your support as they take on Kent State. And don't forget the Lady Eagles—they have a full round of games throughout December—home games against Ball State and Northern Kentucky—with actual conference play starting for both teams in January.

Anywhere you go this time of year there are things to do. The Art Department holds its "Faculty Show", an exhibition of faculty work in one of the art galleries. The Music Department holds recitals featuring a variety of music including the Annual Christmas Sing-a-Long, and one entire week is devoted to final exams! By the time you've finished your exam work, you'll be ready to go home and relax.

As the semester draws to a close, you'll pack your belongings for the holidays and head toward home for winter break.

Reflecting on your first semester of college you may find that you did better in some of your classes than you expected, you'll see areas where you could improve, but ultimately you'll realize that you did it. You successfully finished and survived your first semester in college.

As January gets underway you're ready to start the new year. Now is the time to reapply for financial aid for next year. You'll need to get all your information together, get the right forms filled out, and spend time with your counselor in the Office of Financial Aid. Your counselor will be able to answer all your questions about what type of aid you're eligible for and how to fill out the forms. You'll need to get in the habit of reapplying every January. This is also where you pick up the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).

Mid-month finds you celebrating the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.—a University-wide holiday. A candlelight procession is held on campus to commemorate this special day. As the month draws to a close, you'll find yourself back in a routine and busy with your not-so-new classes.

February arrives with more cold mornings and even colder days. The days are starting to get a little longer but darkness still comes early. Men's and Women's basketball are in full swing so you may find yourself getting together a group of friends to cheer the Eagles to victory! There's plenty of popcorn available as well as exciting court action at least once or twice a week throughout the month and all you need to go is your student I.D. Lady Eagles games start at 5:30 p.m., and the Men's team takes the floor at 7:45 p.m. You may want to make an evening of it starting with the women's games and stay to cheer the men on. The Pep Band will keep you entertained with rousing versions of the MSU Fight Song and other favorites.

This is also the month when the University recognizes the contributions of African-Americans through Black History Month. Activities are sponsored throughout the month to raise cultural awareness on campus and in the community. With all of the activities going on, you and your friends will have plenty of things to choose from. International students are holding special events around this time so you'll be able to join in a multicultural dinner, or simply attend some of the seminars and learn characteristics of other cultures.

If you're really interested in experiencing another culture you may want to participate in an off-campus course that takes you out of the country. MSU offers approximately 50 courses in nearly 20 subject fields in the British Isles, on the European Continent, and in the Orient. As an MSU student you're eligible to participate in International Education Programs to earn academic credit for study abroad. The classes are held during either the winter holiday break or during the summer sessions. The choice is yours.

Another option if you're not quite ready to make the leap overseas but you want to be prepared for future travel is to enroll in one of the foreign language classes offered on campus. Through the Department of English, Foreign Language and Philosophy you can prepare to visit the exciting destinations of Italy, Spain, Germany, France or the former Soviet Union! Introductory and advanced courses are offered in Italian, German, French, Spanish and Russian, as well as some literature, contemporary culture and special topics courses in selected languages. You'll be able to learn all about another culture, including language skills before you ever board the plane.

Mid-month is sweetheart time when Valentine's Day arrives. You'll want to find a special way to show you care. You can send a card or write a poem—some have even written proposals in the snow! Fraternities and sororities may have a "Cupid Crush" party or some other activity to honor St. Valentine.

The theatre program has begun its spring line-up with the first of two shows to be presented and many of the University's outstanding music students will have recitals around this time. Music faculty also provide faculty recitals and the art department is likely to have a major exhibition. Keep in mind that your student I.D. gives you access to all of these activities at no extra charge, so you can take advantage of all kinds of events. Intramural competitions continue, and if you're thinking about dropping any of your classes, the last day for withdrawal falls during February.

By this time you're starting to look at yourself in a different light. You finished your first semester with flying colors and arrived back ready to go. You're beginning to wonder why you ever worried about college in the first place, now that things have become routine. You're also starting to really enjoy and take part in all of the "extra" activities offered on campus. You may find yourself enjoying activities such as recitals, art exhibits, and seminars that you never had any interest in before. You'll start realizing more and more of your potential.

They say that March comes in like a lamb and goes out like a lion. Fortunately you've got Spring Break in between! This is the month for big activities. The Ohio Valley Conference Basketball Tournament is held mid-month, a new Miss MSU is crowned, baseball season and Lady Eagle softball swing into action, and right in the middle is the week when you head south for sun and fun.

If you've followed the Eagles and Lady Eagles basketball teams throughout the season then you'll probably want to join the fun when the OVC tournament gets underway in Lexington. Even if you can't make it for the entire tournament, you may want to attend part of the time. Just think, you could be part of the crowd that cheers the Eagles to victory! Regardless of when you choose to go, there's sure to be exciting court action in all of the tournament games, no matter who's on the court.

If you have aspirations of getting to the Miss Kentucky Pageant, then entering the Miss MSU Scholarship Pageant may be just for you. The pageant takes place during the third or fourth week of March and has traditionally had other state pageant winners and national entertainers involved. The winner of the 28-year-old event receives a monetary scholarship and a bid to the Miss Kentucky Pageant held in mid-June. The 1993 Miss Kentucky, Tonya Virgin, is an MSU graduate.

Another happening this month is mid-terms. It's hard to believe you've been back in school long enough to have mid-term exams, but they're here. You'll take needed time to study and be really thankful you've mastered the use of different campus resources. This is a good time to utilize the library's on-line computer system to locate the resources you need for those mid-semester papers. You may find you've let some things slide, but with a little cramming you'll make it through with the thought of getting away for a week pushing you to do well.

An event that may help you unwind during this stressful time is the annual St. Patrick's Day celebration. With green shamrocks and dancing leprechauns around you, you're sure to find a great way to spend this most "lucky day" of the year. Undoubtedly the Irish among you will celebrate with revelry.

With exams out of the way it's time to get away for a week. You may find yourself heading south with friends for some Florida sunshine, going overseas with a study group, traveling home to see your parents and friends, or any one of many other options. Some students take the time to catch up on things they've put off doing, while others head north or west for a great week on the ski slopes, and still others simply become couch potatoes for a week. It doesn't really matter how you choose to spend it, Spring Break is just what it sounds like—a break to get away from the hassles of school, work, everything, and just relax.

When you arrive back after a great time, you'll find it hard to believe that there are only about six weeks of class left. Unbelievable! You'll spend time catching up with everything your friends did during break, swap a few funny if not embarrassing stories, and talk about what you can do next year. It's also hard to believe that you're almost through with your first full year of college.

It's amazing that only a year ago you were so concerned and apprehensive about going. Now you wouldn't want to be anywhere else
As the month of March draws to a close, you'll start to see the beginning of spring all across campus.

As April arrives, spring becomes more apparent. You'll start to see tiny leaves popping out on trees throughout campus, the dogwood blossoms open in white and pink, flowers push away the grey, dull cold of winter and the days start to get not only warmer but longer. You'll start spending more time outside, enjoying the fresh smells of spring that on very warm days, say summer is just around the corner. You'll also put away most of the clothes that have kept you warm during the last few months and break out the shorts and t-shirts.

And it's time to think about next year! It's hard to believe but it's time to pre-register for classes and decide where you want to live next year. You'll probably spend some time talking with your advisor, looking through the summer and fall schedules of classes and deciding what courses and times are the best for you. If you're still undecided about your major you may want to take a broader range of courses to find what fits your interests. This is one area where your academic advisor can help you. With his or her guidance you will be able to choose courses to suit your interests and still stay on track to complete your degree. It's important to find the courses that will help you ultimately reach your goal and be right for you.

This is the time of year when the University celebrates its founding. The annual Founder's Day celebration honors the founding fathers of the University and recognizes outstanding contributions by members and friends of the institution. Friday's activities usually include a well-known speaker for the opening convocation and a presentation of a giant birthday card by the MSU Student Alumni Ambassadors. You're encouraged to attend the morning convocation to hear the speaker and learn more about the history of what will become your alma mater.

The Student Government Association holds elections at this time, and you'll want to know as much as possible about the candidates who will represent you and your interests. The primary election is held during the third week of the month with the general election the following week. SGA actively works for the whole student body. You may find yourself interested enough to get involved and eventually even consider running for an office. There are also other organizations where your participation would be welcome. These include the Residence Hall Association, the Student Activities Council, the Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils, and various departmental and office groups.

If you're in a sorority or fraternity, you'll be getting ready for the annual spring formal. Greek Week is held around this time with all of the sororities and fraternities participating in games and activities that bring all of the organizations together in the spirit of the Olympics. Some of the activities include an all-Greek sing, a parade through campus, and an end-of-competition cookout. Numerous other campus activities occur during April and include such things as senior music recitals, the senior art exhibition, at least one theatre production, performances by the MSU Percussion Ensembles, Jazz Ensembles, University Chorus, the Concert and Symphony Bands, the Chamber Singers, and perhaps an SGA-sponsored concert. With all of this to choose from you could have a very busy month!

During the third week of April the University celebrates Black Awareness Week with a gala series of lectures, concerts and cultural exhibits highlighting the cultural contributions that African Americans have made to this country.

By month's end you'll be wondering where all the time went. Finals are just a couple of weeks away, you'll have lined up a job for the summer, and you'll realize that your first full year of college is nearly over. You'll start thinking about all of the projects you've put off during the semester and now need to be completed, and how much reading you'll need to do before finals actually hit.

May arrives with spring flowers blooming and the promise of warm, sunny days. While there are only a couple of weeks left in the semester, they are jam-packed. Academic, as well as many other extra-curricular groups have an awards-recognition program early in the month. These activities range from full dinner programs to breakfasts or luncheons to simple ceremonies. Regardless of the format, this is when outstanding students are honored for their accomplishments. You may find that you're being recognized for your talents and abilities! Early May is also the time to have fun.

You may see yourself trekking to the Derby with friends on the first weekend in May or just enjoying the sun at either Eagle or Cave Run Lake. Regardless of what you choose to do, May is beautiful in Morehead. Warm, sunny days with bright blue skies will find you playing sandlot volleyball, biking on the back roads, or simply sitting under a tree with a good book.

After the first week of May, it's time to seriously finish up all incomplete projects and gear up for finals. You'll find yourself reading until late into the night, drinking lots of coffee or soft drinks, eating more munchies than you thought possible and not to forget studying! Not only will you be completing final projects but you'll be concentrating on a whole semester's worth of material. By the time your last exam is finished, you'll probably be exhausted but, at the same time, ecstatic about completing your first full year of college.

Throughout this time you'll see upperclassmen preparing to graduate and enter the workforce. You'll see the anticipation of marching through the graduation line, the excitement and pride within each of them as they get ready to take on the world with their newly-acquired college degree. You'll see some with jobs already lined up, others making plans to attend graduate school, and still others who are just starting the job search process. What you'll see ultimately is satisfaction of a job completed and where all this hard work can take you. You'll see where you can be and where you can go in four years time!

When finals week arrives you'll be prepped and ready. Although studying for finals is always a lot of work, the exams probably won't be as scary this time around. You'll be glad you took the time to complete all the projects you put off through the semester so you can concentrate on finals.

When your finals are over, it's time to say good-bye to friends for the summer. You promise to call or write often, talk about what your plans are for the summer, where you'll be working, and where you might be going on vacation. You may even plan to get together over Memorial Day weekend or the 4th of July to go rafting, sailing, shopping, picnicking or any one of a hundred other things. One thing about summer is the number of unending activities available everywhere. As you pack your things to go home you may take one last look in the bathroom mirror as you go past and think about everything that's happened this year. Think about all the new experiences you've had, all of the friends you've made and how many new friends you'll make next year. Think about how much you've changed since you marched through high school graduation nearly a year ago. And finally, you might think . . . college, what an awesome experience . . . as you carry the last box to the car.

While this is the end of the year for most students, the University offers two sessions of summer school during the months of June and July and holds registration programs for new in-coming students. If you're attending Summer I, you'll return to campus sometime around the first week of June to make sure you're registered and have a place to live. Most classes meet five days a week for four weeks. Since quite a few students attend summer school, you'll probably have a few friends around to either live with or simply enjoy free time with. Summer II begins after the first of July and, again runs for a four week period.

Although there are a number of students on campus in the summer, you'll see a different atmosphere than the rest of the year. While you still have a lot of work, things are more laid back and relaxed. The library has different hours so you'll need to check when resources will be available, and you may want to take advantage of some services, such as the University's Career Planning and Placement program while there are fewer students on campus. And, just because you're going to summer school doesn't mean you need to neglect the fun stuff. If you enjoy swimming and want at least a little tan, there is always Cave Run Lake for swimming, cookouts and picnics. Some students prefer to, as they say, kill two birds with one stone and study while

Numerous special activities also take place during the summer. During the last week of June, the annual Appalachian Celebration is held and everything from sports camps to cheer-leading camps to dulcimer camps and Elderhostels appear on the calendar in July.

June is also the time when the University conducts the annual Summer Orientation, Advising and Registration sessions (SOAR). These are designed to give new in-coming students the opportunity to sign up for classes and finalize plans for the fall semester. SOAR allows you to take the first step in meeting the new friends who will also be marking their calendars for the next four years.

ADMISSION PROCESS

If all of this sounds exciting to you then here's how you can make it happen. During the fall semester of your senior year in high school, you need to complete an Undergraduate Admissions Application, and submit your official ACT or SAT scores along with an official high school transcript or GED to the MSU Office of Admissions.

These should be sent in as early as possible to ensure you receive full consideration for all financial aid and scholarships for which you are eligible. You'll need to work with your parents on some of this information. Feel free to call the Office of Admissions if you have any questions or are uncertain about part of the application.

The University uses the Admissions Index and the pre-college curriculum to determine the eligibility for admission of first time freshman. A minimum index score of 400 and completion of the pre-college curriculum are required for unconditional admission to a baccalaureate program. If you do not meet these requirements, you may be considered for conditional or provisional admission. If you are a transfer student with fewer than 24 hours, you must also submit your official ACT or SAT scores along with college and high school transcripts to the University.

There is no application fee, but remember that you will need to apply for admission before you apply for financial aid, scholarships and housing.

Programs at MSU, including nursing, radiologic technology, veterinary technology, and teacher education, have additional admission requirements. You should check with the appropriate department for more information.

Another reason to get your application in early is eligibility for scholarships. The priority deadline for scholarship applications is March 15, and you must be admitted to the University before you can be considered for any scholarships or financial aid. When compiling the scholarship information for new incoming students, things such as grade point averages, ACT or SAT scores, evidence of leadership in high school or college for transfer students, are among the factors taken into consideration.

The following chart is designed to help you determine what scholarship awards you may be eligible for. You may also want to check with departments in your area of interest as some offer their own scholarships. If you have any questions, contact the MSU Office of Financial Aid.

TO DETERMINE YOUR SCORE:

1. Multiply your high school grade point average (g.p.a. on a 4.0 scale) by 100.
2. Multiply your ACT composite score by 10 (SAT scores will be converted).
3. Add your total g.p.a. score and total ACT score. The result will be your Admissions Index Score.

Example: $\text{g.p.a.} = 3.0 \times 100 = 300$
 $\text{ACT} = 20 \times 10 = 200$
 Admissions Index = 500

RESIDENCE HALLS

Once you've applied for admission, you will next need to complete your housing application/data sheet, then choose a residence hall to be your home for the next year. This form will be sent to you after your admission application is received. A $75 refundable deposit (the Office of Student Housing must receive housing cancellations in writing by July 1) is required with the housing application in order for processing to begin. Housing assignments are made based on date of application and deposit received by the Office of Student Housing, so it's a good idea to make your selections early.

With three housing alternatives to choose from and computer facilities available in selected halls to help support your academic work, there's sure to be one for you. At MSU you have the option of Men Only, Women Only,

University policy requires all single, full-time undergraduate students who have earned fewer than 60 hours of college credit must live in university housing and enroll each semester in a minimum $300 dining club plan. Students covered under this policy are billed for housing and dining services unless a waiver is granted.

Waivers may be granted for (1) students who will be at least 21 years of age during the semester of enrollment; (2) single parents; (3) married students; (4) students commuting from their parent's/guardian's permanent residence; (5) students who have documented medical needs; and (6) veterans. WAIVER FORMS are available from the Office of Student Housing, UPO Box 2525, Thompson Hall, telephone (606)783-2060.

and Men and Women on alternating floors. To get your selection in, you simply choose a residence hall that's right for you on your Preference Information Form. On this form you may also indicate your roommate choices; first priority is given to roommates who request each other and apply early. If you don't make a request, then we'll use care to match you with compatible roommates.

Regardless of which residence hall you choose to live in, all have telephones, a 13-channel cable system, laundry facilities, vending areas, and amusements such as foosball, ping pong, or pool in a game room. You also have the option to add a refrigerator and microwave to your room.

To help you with your selection, the residence hall chart on the following page shows the facilities of each residence hall.

Morehead State University's newly renovated Mays Hall apartments are also open for Fall semester '94. Offering 1, 2, and 3 room units, the facility is designed to meet the needs of today's students and provide maximum privacy. To qualify for residency, students must meet one of the following criteria:

1. Non-traditional student (23 years of age or older)
2. Graduate student
3. Student needing year-round housing (priority given to full-time, upper-class students)
4. Married couples

Mays Hall apartments include: microwave-convection ovens, range top, refrigerator, and private bath. Rental rates include utilities, telephone service, and 13-channel TV cable, and range from $390-$585 per month.

MEALS

Another University offering is the Access Card Service. This service provides the ability to purchase meals, books and supplies, and other services from accounts you establish in advance with the University. Our students are encouraged to use this optional service for their convenience. However, participation in the Diner's Club with a minimum of $300 will be required for students with fewer than 60 hours, who live in a residence hall, beginning with the fall 1994 semester.

Participating in the dining program saves you time and money. There's no time wasted shopping for food, cooking, and cleaning up the mess. This gives you more time to study, to visit friends, and to participate in campus activities. Our options are prepaid, and by prepaying for your meals on a dining plan you are exempt from paying sales tax. Your MSU I.D. card will also function as your dining plan card.

DINING CLUB

The Dining Club is a prepaid account that is established by depositing a sum of money with the University. The amount you deposit can vary depending on your needs and budget. Each time you make a purchase, the amount of your purchase will be subtracted from your account. The Dining Club can be used to purchase food and drinks at any MSU Food Service location, including our on-campus Taco Bell, Burger King, Chick-Fil-A and Domino's Pizza by the slice.

You can, of course, purchase meals or snacks in any food service facility without using the Diner's Club. However, meals purchased with cash are subject to the six percent Kentucky sales tax.

EXPRESS CLUB

The Express Club works as a pre-paid credit card. Once you deposit money into this account, you will be able to use it at various locations on campus to buy goods and services, withdraw funds, or pay fees. Your MSU I.D. card will function as your Express Club Card.

The Express Club can be used at the MSU Bookstore to purchase books, supplies, or other items. It can also be used at the MSU Cashier's Window in the Howell-McDowell Administration Building. At this location you can pay for fees owed to the University, or withdraw cash from your account rather than cashing a check. WITHDRAWALS ARE LIMITED TO ONCE A WEEK FOR A MAXIMUM OF $50. This service is available Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. If you have deferred any portion of your fees to the University, cash withdrawals will not be available until you have paid your fees in full. Your Express Club balance is given to you each time you make a purchase.

Please contact the Access Card Service Office at (606) 783-5254 for detailed information on the Dining Plans and the Express Club.

So what's the bottom line? The complete cost of attending MSU will vary depending on your residency status, housing, meal plans, and the courses you enroll in. Some courses require additional fees for materials and facilities.

FINANCIAL AID

HOW TO PAY FOR COLLEGE

PAYMENT PLANS

Paying for college is never fun, but there are a few options that at least make it easier. At MSU more than 70% of MSU students receive financial aid in the form of loans, grants, scholarships, and workships.

To find out if you qualify for financial assistance through the state of Kentucky, or for federal aid, such as Pell Grants, fill out the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). These forms are available through your high school guidance counselor or the MSU Office of Financial Aid, Morehead State University, 305 Howell-McDowell Ad. Bldg., Morehead, KY 40351-1689 after January 1. It's important that you complete and mail the application as soon as possible because financial aid is awarded on a first-come, first-serve basis. The whole process takes four to six weeks to complete and MSU must receive the results by April 1 in order to put you on the priority list.

In addition to completing the FAFSA you will need to submit the MSU Student Aid Personal Data Sheet. This form, available from the Office of Financial Aid, will enable the University to determine what kind of assistance you are requesting. Most importantly, you'll need to be admitted to the University before you are awarded any financial aid.

Additionally, the University has an optional Installment Payment Plan and Deferred Payment Plans to help students meet financial obligations. The Installment Payment Plan allows you to spread your major college expenses for the coming year over 8 installments.

Each year's payments consist of eight monthly installments beginning May 1 and ending December 1. This insures that there will be sufficient funds in your account for both the fall and spring semesters. The enrollment period for the plan is from March 1 to April 30, with the first installment due May 1. There is a $50 non-refundable fee to join the plan but if all payments are made according to schedule, you receive a $50 credit to spend at the University Bookstore during the spring semester.

The Deferred Payment Plan, designed for students who demonstrate need, allows a student to defer a portion of their educational expenses until a pre-designated point later in the semester, providing they satisfy certain conditions:

All fees deferred are payable in two equal installments due approximately 30 and 60 days into the semester. Students failing to fulfill the terms of the payment agreement will be dropped from enrollment status but may be reinstated within the re-enrollment period after payment of their financial obligation in full plus a $75 non-payment fee.

The University also accepts Mastercard, Visa, American Express and Discover for payment of any fee.

DEFERRED PAYMENT PLAN

1. The student will pay at the time the deferral is requested, an amount equal to at least one-third ($1/3$) of his/her total fees that are not covered by University-awarded financial aid, plus a deferral fee.
2. The student must complete and sign a promissory note for the balance of fees owed.
3. The student must have satisfied all prior financial obligations to Morehead State University.

STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

Let us entertain you!

Throughout the year the Student Government Association brings hot, national entertainers to campus at very low cost for MSU students. SGA strives to provide a variety of shows that have broad appeal for audiences. Some of the most recent entertainers included Alan Jackson, and Taylor Dayne, along with comedians and illusionists of international fame. Other theatre, dance and music productions are brought to campus through the Arts in Morehead series and the University departments of Music and Art. So regardless of your interests, there's sure to be something for you.
